Air Cadets All Fired Up!

Cadets from 2484 Squadron (Bassingbourn) Air Cadets had an exciting evening on Monday when they visited the Duxford Imperial War Museum Fire Service. The Duxford Fire Service provide full back-up for what can be a busy airfield, especially on air show weekends.

They gave demonstrations to the Air Cadets, aged 13-18, on the full range of the expertise at fighting different types of fires, especially crashed aircraft.

Corporal Katie McArthur of Royston commented “it was an exciting and action packed night which showed the range of expertise of a Fire Service stationed at an airfield.”

Flight Lieutenant Martin Stamp, OC 2484 Squadron said “This is just one of the many exciting excursions on offer to the Air Cadets and was thoroughly enjoyed by all”.
