

Gunpowder, Treason And Plot

Flame and thunder filled the sky for the staff and cadets of 134 (Bedford) Squadron, during their annual fireworks display.

Following a brief talk from WO Paul Taylor reminding the cadets of the history behind firework night, the show began.

After 5 weeks of planning by Civilian Instructor Steven Croft, 32 cadets were treated to a first class, thirty minute display, where over £300 worth of fireworks were sent up in smoke.

Behind the safety cordon. Warrant officer Paul Taylor put his Range Conducting Officer training to good use, as he took control of the carefully planned detonation sequence.

Civilian Instructor Steven Croft said of the evening "Every year the display goes from strength to strength. The cadets have all worked really hard throughout the year and so everyone deserved this chance to relax and enjoy themselves."

Thanks must also go to the Civilian Committee who provided a wide range of refreshments on the night.

Bedford Squadron is currently recruiting new cadets and staff members, if you are interested please contact www.134.org.uk and get in touch with us.
