PRESS RELEASE

Recently, several members of Wisbech Air Cadets participated in several section visits at RAF

▽ Marham

— The cadets started the morning off with a visit to the Tactical Imagery-Intelligence Wing (TIW) section and were briefed by Corporal Mike Ahmed who also introduced two other TIW members, SAC Sean Edwards and SAC William Davidson, who were to be our escorts for the day. The cadets were then shown some of the equipment and kit that the RAF personnel are issued when deployed overseas, such as Afghanistan.

They were then split into 2 groups. Half went to visit the RAF Fire Section, where they were shown around the appliances and equipment used; and the other half visiting the Stations Regiment section, who were briefed upon how the Regiment undertake duties both in the UK and Abroad. Both groups then met back up for lunch in the Junior Ranks Mess, which was a new experience for some of the younger cadets.

After lunch the cadets then progressed onto CMU and Supply. All RAF Fighter Tornados at RAF Marham have to pass through CMU when having a major service, and the cadets got to see how complex a Tornado can be!

We then returned to the TIW section for some films about life in the RAF and then returned back to Wisbech Squadron. The cadets thoroughly enjoyed the day and it gave them an insight into the many different career opportunities within the RAF.

Wisbech Air Cadets are now actively recruiting so if you would like to join us for trips such as these and many more different activities, then please come and see us on a Monday or Thursday evening at our Sandyland Headquarters from 7pm onwards.
