

Press Release

Recently 115 (Peterborough) Squadron enrolled 19 new cadets in a passing out parade overseen by Squadron Leader Bartlett and the Squadron Padre.

The cadets, enrolled by Squadron Leader Bartlett, had undergone training for many months in order to become first class cadets. They undertook studies of 8 subjects including the history of the air training corps and the royal air force, rifle training, initial expedition training and radio and communication training.

The newly enrolled turned up in their best uniform and were sworn in by the Padre; who presented them with their identity booklet known as a 3822 and their first class cadet badges. The cadets' friends and family turned out to show their support and the evening was a brilliant success. Flight Sergeant Roberts said "The evening went very well and the cadets were smartly presented. I was very proud of them all"

The squadron is open for young people to look round on the 8th of March from 7pm.

115 (Peterborough) Squadron is open to young people between 13-17years of age. Air cadets have an opportunity to take part in vast amounts of activities such as flying, gliding, team sports, target shooting, camps adventure training, social activities and much more.
